Inscribed on this are the words "Heroic or Meritorious Achievement", encircling a blank space for the recipient's name. Teacher Have you reviewed AR 600-8-19 to see if you are eligible to go to a promotion board? If I were you I would go onto HRC's website. Choose enlisted promotions and then about halfway down the page choose the Promotion Point Worksheet (PPW). When you open the PPW it will say what your status is. Reviewer Last Updated: July 25, 2019. Army promotion points play an important role in your journey from Corporal or Specialist all the way up to Staff Sergeant. There are 4 categories where you can earn promotion points. These include military training, awards or decorations, military education and civilian education. Reviewer Historically speaking do promotion points go down in October, the new fiscal year? That's solely dependent on your MOS. the (SFC)E-7 list will come out the same time but depending on your MOS strength and needs they may or may not lower the points. Reviewer By definition a STAR MOS is an MOS unable to meet the promotion requirement and is below its targeted strength set by the Army. Reviewer The minimum time in service requirement is 35 months with 7 months Time in Grade to be promoted to Sergeant. So my original short answer is accurate for the average soldier. If you enlist in the Army with a four year degree you join as an E-4 (Specialist). Basic Combatives (Level 1) certified trainers are capable of teaching basic combatives basic core techniques. They can implement basic combatives training at the Squad level with oversight from Tactical Combatives (Level 2) trainers. Tactical Combatives (Level 2) certified trainers are given a more detailed understanding of basic core techniques, and are given a broadened knowledge of some more advanced fighting techniques. They can implement basic combatives training at the Platoon level with oversight from Basic Combatives Instructors (Level 3). Basic Combatives Instructors (Level 3) are authorized to teach the Basic Combatives Trainer course as well as run Battalion sized Combatives programs with oversight from Tactical Combatives Instructors (Level 4). General Modern Army Combatives Course MTTs are currently available for Levels I & II certification. Level I is five days in duration and is the base level for every Soldier in the ARNG. Level two is ten days in duration and builds on the skills introduced in the Level I course. Both Level I and II have incorporated quick strikes and other moves previously taught in Level III and IV. These changes allow Soldiers to subdue an opponent without the need to take them to the ground.
